DOINGS OF THE AMERICAN LEGION

A regular meeting of the American Legion was held on Wednesday evening. Interesting reports on past activities and plans for future doings were discussed.

The members of the Legion were much gratified with the sale of poppies on May 30. Several times as many could have been sold if they had been available. We take this opportunity of thanking the public for the hearty response. The local Camp Fire Girls had charge of the sales.

On June 14, Flag Day, members of the Legion cooperated with ladies of the town in serving a dinner to the Civil War Veterans of the County. Eighty-six meals were served.

At one of our July meetings an initiation team will give a burlesque initiation ceremonial entitled "The Cursed Court of Emperor Sin Sin". It is certain to prove entertaining to old members and interesting to the recruits.

Plans are beginning to take shape for the Union picnic. Last year, at the suggestion of some of the townspeople, the former union picnic was given under the auspices of the American Legion. The affair was quite a success and the Legion has again been asked to take charge of it.

During the coming winter, the Legion will conduct a Lyceum course. In quality it will compare favorably with the Chautauqua and the annual Teachers' Institute. The contract has been closed and able talent is assured.

June 22, 23 and 24 will find thousands of Pennsylvania farmers at their own Pennsylvania State College to observe at first hand methods in agriculture and results of experiments which if applied will take the guess out of farming and put it on a business basis. From all indications and inquiries Bedford County will be well represented there.

The program will begin Wednesday evening and extend on to Friday afternoon. The program for Thursday forenoon is here given as a sample of what might be expected for the entire three days.

It is more extensive than ever and will furnish interesting observation and valuable instruction to all regardless of the type of farming followed. The full program of events may be obtained at the farm Bureau office and takes up subjects not listed on Thursday forenoon.

PITTSBURGH COLLEGIANS TO PLAY HERE

After several weeks of corresponding and arranging details, the management of the Bedford Athletic Club has finally landed the largest Base Ball attraction that has ever been staged in Bedford. The Pittsburgh Collegians are without a doubt the best club outside of the Big Leagues. They are composed of all College Stars and are all gentlemen. They have won from W. & J. University of Pittsburgh, University of W. Va., and other high class College Teams and are now appearing at different College Commencement exercises for exhibition games.

This team is managed by Richard Guy, Sporting Editor of the Pittsburgh Leader, and will come here under a heavy guarantee and deserves the patronage of everybody, as the people of Bedford County will be able to witness some of the best base ball players in the country.

If this attraction proves a success, Bedford will be able to enjoy seeing several other high class teams this season, as the management is already in touch with the Cuban Giants of New York and several Bloomer Girl Teams.

Special Bleachers will be built for the game with the Pittsburgh Collegians in order that everyone attending may have a seat.

Baseball is one of the best amusements for Bedford, also the County. Let everybody turn out for this game and wake up the old town.

Posters will be sent all over the county announcing the time of game, etc., soon.

She is survived by her husband, and infant daughter, her parents, one brother, Mervin, and three sisters, Mildred, Gladys and Dorothy.

Funeral services were conducted at the home on Monday morning by the Rev. J. L. Smith, Interment in the Reformed cemetery at New Paris.

INTERESTING CHAUTAUQUA PROGRAM

Chautauqua programs, window cards, posters, pennant ropes, dates and other forms of advertising are being distributed this week by C. H. Grose, second advance man for the Redpath Company.

Mr. Grose predicts that there will be ten favorite attractions on the five day program which is to be held June 20 to June 24 inclusive. He asserts that there is not a number on the entire program that will not fail to please the most discriminating patrons. From the first afternoon's concert by the American Troubadours to the closing program by Knight MacGregor, New York baritone, the week is crowded with interesting events.

This season the Redpath management is supplying a complete news outfit of folding chairs, platform and other equipment that makes for the comfort of those under the "big top".

The local Chautauqua committee is encouraged over the outlook this year, and it is predicted that the ticket quota will be more than met.

AMERICAN IS AMONG KILLED IN IRELAND

DUBLIN, June 14.—Thomas Rush, who was shot to death Sunday evening at Lisacul, near Castleagh, by Crown forces, was a pensioner of the American army, it was officially stated today. He returned to Ireland 14 months ago and probably was an American citizen, it was added.

At Lisacul the crown forces surprised about 50 civilians who are believed to have been drilling. The civilians scattered, but were pursued for some distance by the troops, who repeatedly summoned them

When asked to summarize his career of eight years as Secretary of the American Navy

JOSEPHUS DANIELS replied:

"Four years of Quiet--then Hell on all sides"

The screen which safeguarded American secrets may now be lifted, and this Mr. Daniels is doing in a notable series of articles entitled:

OUR NAVY IN THE WORLD WAR

Don't miss a word of this gripping series. Mr Daniels will tell you an absorbing story of fact more interesting than fiction. You may go with him behind the screen of secrecy which hitherto veiled many important subjects. He will take you with him into the Conference room where momentous battles of will were waged over mahogany tables. With him you interview Lloyd George, Clemenceau, Joffre, Balfour, Admiral Jellicoe. You will hear of almost incredible feats of arms than were performed under stress of war. Secretary Daniels may--nay he will--tell you of how Prince Udine caught the measles and of Taking the Little Nursery Rhymes Away to War.

Torrington ELECTRIC VACUUM CLEANER

BIG BRUSH POWERFUL SUCTION

Gives you the time that other women have

A Torrington Cleaner will do your cleaning in a few minutes in the morning, leaving your afternoons free.

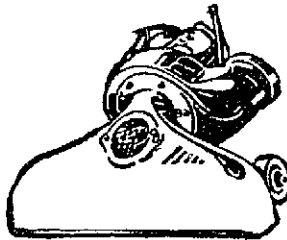

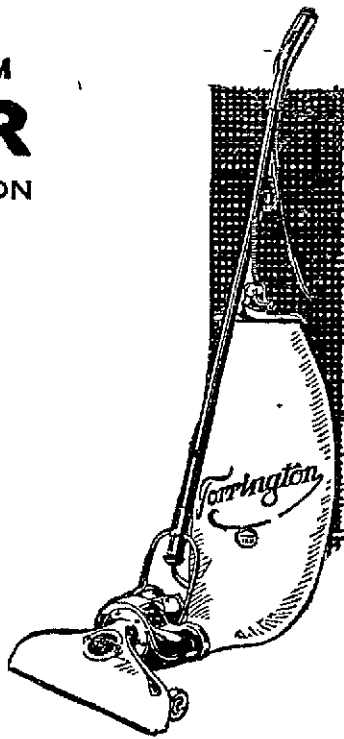

Or, if you have a maid, a Torrington means a more contented servant, and more thorough, careful cleaning. To maid or housewife, Torrington electric cleaning brings easier, quicker, better cleaning and more "time off."

Big Brush—Powerful Suction

The carpet-sweeper brush in the nozzle of the Torrington, working with the powerful suction generated by the sturdy Torrington motor, will mean more leisure time for you.

To appreciate fully how much a Torrington can help, you must try one in your own home.

By No Means a Dude.

The speaker was energetically orating in behalf of a candidate for congress. "What we want," spoke up a man in the audience, "is a man from the rank and file as our representative; a man from the common people, not one of these dudes that don't know anything but how to wear a long-tailed coat." "And that is just exactly what my candidate is," the speaker came back; "one of the common people. And by no stretch of the imagination could you call him a 'dude.' Why, his idea of dressing up is to button his vest."

Comfortable Cave.

From Bend, Ore., comes the interesting announcement that a few miles southeast of that town, at Hot Springs, has been discovered a natural heated cave. It apparently draws warm atmosphere from a subterranean source. The cave, which is near the top of the butte first attracted attention by the way of heat issuing from its mouth.

An Historic Forest.

The historical associations connected with the forest of Vallombrosa are very interesting. It was founded in the Twelfth century and given its name which literally translated, means "Shadowed Valley," by Saint Giovanni Gualberto, says Nelson Courtlandt Brown in the American Forestry Magazine. It was founded as a monastery and retreat for one of the Benedictine order of monks, and from its early inception the monks took great pride in caring for, cultivating and replanting the forests.

Raisin Grapes.

Ordinary grapes do not make good raisins. Leading varieties used are the Muscatel, Gordo, Blanco, Muscat of Alexandria and Malaga. The bunches are cut from the vines and placed on trays to sun-dry, being turned from time to time. The process is simple. Large growers have curing sheds to avoid risk in drying on account of rain. Seeding is done by machinery.

Oriental Peculiarities.

Chinese medicine developed a special fondness for fossilized "dragon bones," derived from extinct herbivora. They are also fond of "dragon teeth," as fossilized shells are called. In Shantung, glue is made from asses' skins. In a certain town of that province is a well, the water of which, when drunk by asses, makes their skins especially good for making glue. This glue brings a fancy price, as it is a famous tonic throughout China.

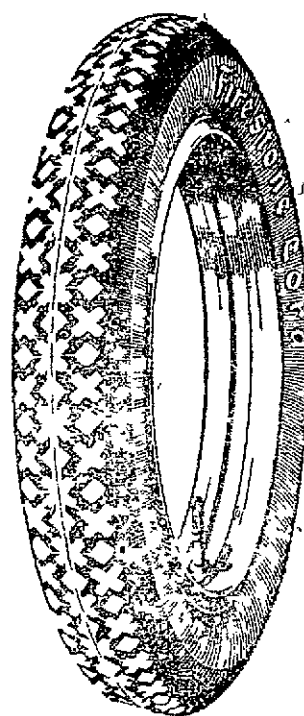

Plastic Amputations.

Dr. G. Bosch Atana of Buenos Ayres has made a remarkable success in modeling the stump of an amputated thigh by the plastic operation. In the Semina Medica (Buenos Ayres) he gives details of the way he remodels the stump so as to utilize the individual tissues and describes the extent to which the man moves his foot thus, as if by the natural bending of the leg.

Chinese Massage.

Medical gymnastics were reduced to a scientific system by Taoist monks. The main point of the Chinese system of massage is the three principal attitudes, standing, sitting and lying, and three modes of breathing, through the mouth, nose and inspiration and expiration alternately through both organs. Iron balls are rolled swiftly to and fro in the hands to strengthen the muscles. To massage the stomach a wooden instrument consisting of three movable wheels is applied.

ONCE UPON A TIME THERE WERE NO DOCTORS!

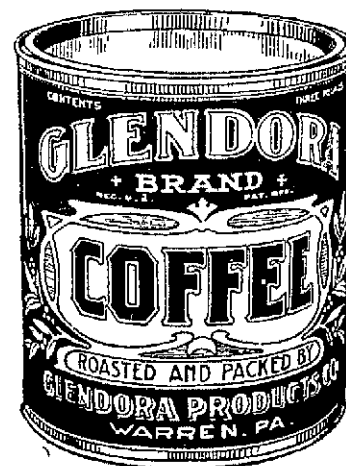

The Doctor Was Not Much Needed Until Folks Began to Break Nature's Laws.

Doctors Preach Prevention Is Better Than Cure.

Ninety per cent of all disease is preventable, so doctors say. Eat simple food, exercise wisely, sleep sufficiently, and—what is vitally important—make sure of the daily, regular, thorough elimination of body waste, and the chances are nine to one that you will keep well, work efficiently and enjoy life. Bowel elimination of food and tissue waste is all-important. But in case of irregularity, disordered or imperfect action do not make the common mistake of taking harsh, violently acting medicines, with the idea of forcing the bowels to act. Nature believes in mild methods. She responds best to persuasion.

So in selecting a simple remedy to regulate and assure proper bowel action, you should not use harsh or violently acting remedies, no matter how much has been claimed for them. You should choose some well-known, time tested, trial proven remedy, that has made its reputation by being used for many years, by all sorts of people, all over the world. Take Beecham's Pills for example. Beecham's is a household word, has been for many generations. Beecham's Pills is a household remedy, has been for over half a century. People not only take Beecham's but recommend Beecham's to their friends. Their use is handed down from father to son or from mother to daughter, from one generation to another. Did you ever hear any complaint or criticism of Beecham's? Isn't that a pretty powerful endorsement of their worth? Druggists are glad to sell Beecham's.

STARTLING STATEMENTS OF INTEREST TO EVERY FARMER

A. C. Palmer, one of the leading dairymen of Indiana, in an article in a recent issue of Hoard's Dairyman said:

"I believe the fact of pasturing all summer without supplementing feed is one of the greatest sins of the dairyman and the thing more than all others responsible for decreased milk and butterfat production. I speak from an experience of my own.

"Nine tenths of the dairymen are at fault in that their cows are underfed, and no small percentage have cows on their farms that are actually starving.
To a large extent, this is due to an ignorance of food properties and values as, for instance, in feeding corn fodder, or corn silage even, and thus make a balanced ration."

"What is grass anyway? What sort of a master food is it that it should be considered a perfect food for dairy cows? The answer is that grass is practically pure water in its nature, and what farmer even pretends to keep cows would think of feeding his stock on moist feed all winter. Yet that is all the feed the poor cow usually gets throughout the summer."

"What is the argument raised that since grass is the natural food for cows, then, when there is plenty of it that is all she needs. The answer is that since the production of milk in larger quantity than is necessary for her young is an unnatural function of the cow, unnatural methods must be employed to produce it. Green areas will furnish the nutrition for a cow's body maintenance, and its appetizing and stimulating qualities will encourage milk production. But all too often the stimulating quality recedes, and by encouraging greater milk production when she does not receive a perfect food of food, her body makes up the difference so that by the end of grass season her body is weaker than in the spring. Then the dairymen must build her up during the winter months and receive a greatly reduced milk flow while doing it."

"In 1917 I fed my cows until June 10, and, like my neighbors, gave them pasture alone until September 15, when their standard milk production made me hurry feed shipments. But even then the damage was done, and the decrease continued until time to dry them. This year I continued the same feed throughout the summer, and the same cows, having calved at nearly the same time last year, are giving now over 40 per cent more milk than the season before. Some credit must be given to the improved pasture conditions, but the difference is undoubtedly the biggest reason is the feed they got the past summer is now giving results. And this extra 40 per cent is more than making good the feed the cows ate for a profit."

"Feed short in quantity is no worse than feed short in quality. The man who thinks he can winter a herd of dairy cows on a ration of corn fodder or hay and bran, is lacking in the knowledge necessary for his success. It is a business that calls for brains and study as much as any business a man may enter. The problem of percentage of protein, carbohydrate and fat needed to produce a certain quantity of milk in a cow of a determined weight must be solved if the dairymen is to produce milk at a profit."

"One can't start today with even a perfect ration and expect a big increase next week, or next month.
Many cows are run-down; they have been underfed and their systems are deranged. It takes time to get them straightened out and nature working right. It takes from six months to a year to produce the real results that will come from proper feeding of a cow that has been undernourished for years. These things can't be done in days."

And again pointing to the one great mistake made by dairymen, A. C. Palmer says: "And furthermore it sounds like a fact that the greater part of the under-feeding on the part of the farmer with pasture comes during the summer months."

Accidental Fortune.

Blotting paper was discovered by accident. Silver sand was originally used, but in a paper factory a woman once accidentally forgot to put on the sizing. The proprietor picked up a piece of the paper, but was annoyed to find that it was soaking up the ink. He at once entertained the idea that the paper would be useful for "drying."

Proper Flower Arrangement.

The essential point in all flower arrangement is that there shall be form and balance, yet that the composition shall not be perfectly symmetrical, as perfect symmetry is not found in nature. In order to attain the desired effect the flower stalks and branches used are carefully bent and twisted, and this work is done with such delicacy and dexterity as to conceal the fact that their forms have been altered by artificial means.

Leather From Rat Skins.

That the skin of the rat can be used for leather has been proved, even though an experiment with some thousands of skins imported from France proved in the nineteenth century that the manufacture was not commercially worth while. A pair of shoes made from the skin of the rat, placed as soft as the finest kid, but it took six skins to make the one pair, only the back being stout enough for use.

THE POOR LITTLE RICH CHILD.

A child-welfare survey in Chicago reported in Monday's news, revealed weight deficiency in 50 per cent of the pupils of an exclusive North Side school. Back of the stock-yards only 18 per cent of children were underweight. In tenements of the Lower North Side one child in six was found to be subnormal. In these findings is further strengthening of the case lately presented to the American Medical Association by specialists in children's diseases.

According to their testimony, it is mainly the little children of the rich who suffer from malnutrition. A St. Louis physician said that he found the condition more common among the children of the wealthy than in the homes of the poor, and other members of the convention agreed with his conclusions. The practice of a Grand Rapids physician disclosed 40 per cent of cases to do children as against 20 per cent among poor children.

In Chicago an expert of the survey attributes the weakening of the children of wealth to bottle-feeding in infancy and too much rich food later on. Before the association, blame was cast upon what was termed the complexity of modern life. Too much excitement, too frequent dances and parties and not enough rest—these are the causes of undernourishment among well-to-do children.

Aside from their vital import to the nation, these revelations are humanly interesting in showing where the poor little rich child has cause to envy his rugged brother of the tenements.

SURPRISE PARTY

A surprise party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Imgrund, of near New Buena Vista, on Friday evening, June 10th, in honor of their daughter Lucy's sixteenth birthday. Miss Lucy received many nice presents. The evening was pleasantly spent in dancing and friendly conversation. As refreshments fine cake, sandwiches and lemonade were served. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. George Imgrund, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Felten, Mr. and Mrs. Roddy Felten, Misses Rose Hankinson, Florence and Blanche Hillegass, Olive Deaner, Pearl Landis, Mary Brittlebun, Anna Engbert, Bernadine, Emma and Margaret Imgrund, Margaret Fochtman, Bertha Speicher, Mae and Katy Fisher, Ruth Sutmiller, Bertha Shippey, Jessie Coyie, Vera Hillegass, Zita Werner, Addie Brenning, Gladys Werner, Nellie and Aloyce Egolf, Mary Hillegass, Messrs. Howard, Glenn, Roy and Merrill Hillegass, Leo, Adam, Philip, Mickle and Dominic Imgrund, Claude Straub, Clem Wolfhove, Cletus Werner, Francis, Urban, Dyonatus and Fred Hankinson, Edmund, Clarence and Francis Fochtman, James Speicher, Edward Engbert and Robert and Francis Hillegass.

At a late hour the guests departed wishing Miss Sweet Sixteen many more happy birthdays.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL

Sunday School Lesson

(By REV. P. E. FITZWATER, D. D.,
Teacher of English Bible in the Moody
Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(©, 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

LESSON FOR JUNE 19.

MAKING THE SOCIAL ORDER CHRISTIAN.

LESSON TEXT—Luke 4:16-21; Matt. 23:34-40.
GOLDEN TEXT—Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me.—Matt. 23:40.

REFERENCE MATERIAL—Acts 2: 37-47; 8: 4-8.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Pleasing Jesus by Helping Others.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Example Jesus Gave Us.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Making All of Life Christian.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christianity Transforming the Social Order.

Again we say not "Making the Social Order Christian," if the committee please. At least these texts selected by the committee do not so teach, for they have no bearing upon the question. Why two texts so widely separated in meaning should be selected to go together under the subject named is incomprehensible. The teacher should therefore ignore the subject chosen and endeavor to bring out the meaning of the texts.

1. Jesus in the Synagogue at Nazareth (Luke 4:16-21).

1. His custom was to go to the house of God (v. 16). He now had come back to the town of his boyhood days and entered the place of worship as was His custom.

2. Jesus reading from the Scriptures (vv. 18-19). He opened the book at the sixty-first chapter of Isaiah and read the Scripture passage which set forth His entire mission.

(1) Character of His mission (vv. 18, 19). (a) Preach the gospel to the poor. God has peculiar regard for the poor, and the glory of the gospel is that it comes to the help of the very ones most in need. It puts a ladder at the feet of a man and enables him to climb as high as his ability will permit him.

(b) Heal the broken-hearted. How many are the broken-hearted! (c) Preach deliverance to the captives. Those who are in captivity to sin and Satan, Christ can and will deliver (John 8:34-36). (d) Recovering of sight to the blind. Christ not only can open the physical eyes but the eyes of the spirit as well.

(e) Set at liberty them that are bruised. Satan has been most mercilessly bruising men, but the Mighty One has come who can set them free. (f) Preach the acceptable year of the Lord. This was the Year of Jubilee which looked forward to the glorious millennial age (Lev. 25:8-13, 50-54).

(2) His endowment (v. 18). The Holy Spirit came upon Christ for the express purpose of fitting Him for His divine mission. Because of this endowment He cannot fail in His glorious work.

(3) His testimony (vv. 20, 21). Having completed the reading, He declared that the Scripture had fulfillment then and there in himself. This was a critical hour for the people. May it be just as critical for the members of every class where this lesson is studied! May there not be rejection like that which followed His testimony at Nazareth!

11. The Judgment of the Nations (Matt. 25:34-40).

The biblical unit here is verses 31-46. One cannot intelligently teach the verses selected without their setting; so it would be better to take a survey of the whole.

This judgment should be carefully distinguished from what is popularly called "General Judgment." The Bible speaks of different judgments, differing in respect to the subjects, the place, the time, and the results of the judgment. Note the following particulars:

1. The Judge (v. 31). The Son of Man in glory.

2. The time (v. 31). It is when the Lord shall come in His glory accompanied by His glorious retinue of angels.

3. The place (v. 31). It will be on the throne of His glory. This throne will be most surely in the land of Israel. The prophecy of Joel, third chapter, and Zechariah 14:1-5 make it to be in or near Jerusalem.

4. The people judged (vv. 32-46). These people will be the living nations upon the earth after the church has been translated (I Thess. 4: 16, 17). These nations are the ones to whom the gospel of the kingdom shall be preached just prior to the coming of the Lord (see Matt. 24:14). The preachers of this gospel will be Jews (Rev. 7; Rom. 11).

5. The issue of the judgment (v. 46; cf. 34-41). The sheep enter upon the inheritance of a prepared kingdom (v. 34). The goats go into an everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels. Their destiny is fixed (v. 46).

Hope and Pray.

Let us hope and pray that those who reach and those who worship in the temples of God may never be out of touch with the saints above or the sinners below. When we get out of touch with humanity, we are never in very close touch with Divinity.—Uncle Henry's Sayings.

On Giving.

He that hath two coats, let him impart to him that hath none. Luke 3:11.

FELT LIKE AN IRON BAND AROUND HEAD

Mrs. Osborne Says She Shudders When She Thinks How She Suffered.

"For years," said Mrs. V. B. Osborne, of 718 Lancaster Ave., Lexington, Ky., "I have been in a run-down condition, nervous, weak and dizzy. I was actually so nervous that any sudden noise or excitement would produce a palpitation of my heart that frightened me. I absolutely could not climb stairs, for to attempt such would thoroughly exhaust me.

"I had nervous headaches and when they came on it seemed that an iron band was drawn tight around my head. I now shudder when I think of those headaches. My stomach was weak and I could not digest the lightest liquid food. Any food of a solid nature caused nausea and the sickening sensation remained for hours.

"My misery was almost unbearable. My sleep was never sound and I was worn out all the time. My condition was indeed a very deplorable one. I finally sought treatment in Cincinnati but, nothing helped me one particle. I was on the verge of giving up in despair when a neighbor pleaded with me to try Tanlac. I obtained a bottle of the medicine and began its use.

"I began improving at once and soon felt my nervousness and dizziness disappearing. Then my headaches left me and I realized my strength had returned. My appetite and digestion improved and I am now so much better in every way. This Tanlac is a wonderful medicine and the only one that ever really helped me. I hope every woman who is suffering as I did will try it."

Fox Squirrel's Nests.

In the South, instead of living in the hollow trees, the fox squirrels build big nests in the tops of the pine and other trees, usually of Spanish moss, says the American Forestry Magazine. In these they sleep also carrying to them the pine cones. In the hardwood forests of the North, the leaves take the place of the Spanish moss, and a conspicuous nest is built with an entrance hole at the side.

ready to move it out to the main line. I yelled at them and ran in. Three of them tackled me the moment I came within reach. I got one of the three on the point of the jaw, and they had to leave him behind; but there were enough more of them. Before I fairly realized what was happening, they had me trussed up like a Christmas turkey, and loaded into the cab of the engine. From that on, it was all plain sailing.

"Then they took you to the old lumber camp?"

"As fast as the engine could be made to turn her wheels, Arroyo has no night operator, and when we sneaked through the Santa yard and past the station, the operator there was asleep. I saw him, with his head in the crook of his arm, at the telegraph table in the bay window as we passed.

"We ran out to the Timber Mountain 'Y' and from that on up the old saw-mill line. The rail connections were all in place, and I knew from this that preparations had been made beforehand. They wouldn't tell me anything except that I was to be locked up for a few days."

"You knew what that meant?"

"Perfectly. My drop-out would be made to look as if I had jumped the job, and Dunton would appoint a new man. After that, I could come back, if I wanted to. Whatever I might do or try to do would cost no figure, and no explanation I could make would be believed. I had most obligingly dug my own official grave, and there could be no resurrection."

"What then?" pressed Ripley, keenly interested, as anybody could see.

"When they took the clothes-line from my arms there was another scrap. It didn't do any good. They got the door shut on me and got it locked. After that, for four solid days, Ripley, I was made to realize how little it takes to hold a man. I had my pocket-knife, but I couldn't whittle my way out. The floor punches were spiked down, and I couldn't dig out. They had taken all my matches, and I couldn't burn the place. I tried the stick-rubbing, and all those things you read about—they're fakes; I couldn't get even the smell of smoke."

"The chimney?"

"There wasn't any. They had heated the place, when it was a commissary, with a stove, and the pipe hole through the ceiling had a piece of sheet iron nailed over it. And I couldn't get to the roof at all. They had me."

Ripley nodded and said, snappily: "Well, we've got them now—any time you give the word. Tarbell has a pinch on one of the Clannahan men and he will turn state's evidence. We can railroad every one of those fellows who carried you off."

"And the men higher up?" queried the boss.

"No; not yet."

"Then we'll drop it right where it is. I don't want the hired tools; no one of them, unless you can get the devil that crippled Jimmie Dodds, here."

They went on, talking about my burn-up. Listening in, I learned for the first time just how it had been done. Tarbell, through his hold upon the wretched Clannahan striker, had got the details at second-hand. A lead had been taken from a power wire at the corner of the street and hooked over the outer door-knob. And inside I had been given a sheet of copper to stand on for a good "ground," the copper itself being wired to a water pipe running up through the hall. Tar-wire and the copper sheet with its connections hidden in a small rubbish closet under the hall stair, just where a fellow in a hurry might chuck them.

"Tarbell is a striking success," Mr. Norcross put in, along at the end of things. "We'll keep him on with us, Ripley."

Past this there was a little more talk about the C. S. & W. deal, and about what the Hatch crowd would be likely to try next; and when it was finished, and Ripley was reaching for his hat the boss said, "There is no change in the orders; we've got 'em going now, and we'll keep 'em going. Drive it, Ripley; drive it, for every ounce there is in you. Never mind the election talk or the stock quotations. This railroad is going to be honest if it never eats another net dollar. We'll win."

"It's beginning to look a little better way now," the wretched Arroyo said, his hand on the door knob.

same, Norcross, the boss said.

ers, and our numbers are precisely one; one man—holding up a single finger. "As before, the pyramid is standing on its head—and you are the head. For God's sake, be careful!"

It was late in the afternoon when Ripley made his visit, and pretty soon after he went away the boss and I closed up our end of the shop and left May pecking away at his typewriter on a lot of routine stuff. I don't know what made me do it, but as I was passing Fred's desk on the way out, striding along behind the boss, I stopped and jerked open one of the drawers. I knew beforehand what was in the drawer, and pointed to it—a new .33 automatic. Fred nodded, and I slipped the gun into my left-hand pocket, wondering as I did it, if I could make out to hit the broad side of a barn, shooting with that hand, if I had to.

A half-minute later I had caught up with Mr. Norcross, and together we left the building and went up to the Bullard for dinner.

CHAPTER IX

In the Coal Yard

I knew, just as well as could be—without being able to prove it—that we were shadowed on the trip up from the railroad building to the hotel, and it made me nervous. There could be only one reason now for any such dogging of the boss. The grafters were not trying to find out what he was doing; they didn't need to, because he was advertising his doings—or Juneman—was in the newspapers. What they were trying to do was to catch him off his guard and do him up—this time to stay done up.

It was safe to assume that they wouldn't fumble the ball a second time. Mr. Ripley had stood the thing fairly on its feet when he said that our campaign was purely a one-man proposition, so far as it had yet gone. People who had met the boss and had done business with him liked him; but the old-time prejudice against the railroad was so wide-spread and so bitter that it couldn't be overcome all at once. Juneman, our publicity man, was doing his best, but as yet we had no party following in the state at large which would stand by us and see that we got justice.

I was chewing this over while we sat at dinner in the Bullard cafe, and I guess Mr. Norcross was, too, for he didn't say much. I don't know whether he knew anything about the shadowing business I speak of or not, but he might have. We hadn't more than given our dinner order when one of Hatch's clerks, a cock-eyed chap named Kestler, came in and took a table just far enough from ours to be out of the way, and near enough to listen in if we said anything.

When we finished, Kestler was just getting his service of ice-cream; but I noticed that he left it untouched and got up and followed us to the lobby. It made me hot enough to want to turn on him and knock his crooked eye out, but of course, that wouldn't have done any good.

After Mr. Norcross had bought some cigars at the stand he said he guessed he'd run out to Major Kendrick's for a little while; and with that he went up to his rooms. Though the major was the one he named, I knew he meant that he was going to see Mrs. Sheila. I remembered what he had said to Ripley about a woman's giving him germ ideas and such things, and I guess it was really so. Every time he spent an evening at the major's he'd come back with a lot of new notions for popularizing the Short Line.

When he said that, about going out to the major's, Kestler was near enough to overhear it, and so he waited, lounging in the lobby and pretending to read a paper. About half-past seven the boss came down and asked me to call a taxi for him. I did it; and Kestler loomed around just long enough to see him start off. Then he lit out.

himself, and something in the way he did it made me take out after him. The first thing I knew I was trailing him through the railroad yard and on down past the freight house toward the big, fenced-in, Red Tower coal yards.

At the coal yard he let himself in through a wicket in the wagon gates and I noticed that he used a key and locked the wicket after he got inside. I put my eye to a crack in the high stockade fence and saw that the little shack office that was used for a scale house was lighted up. My burnt hand was healing tolerably well by this time and I could use it a little. There was a slack pile just outside of the big gate, and by climbing to the top of it I got over the fence and crept up to the scale-house.

A small window in one end of the shack, opened about two inches at the bottom, answered well enough for a peep-hole. Three men were in the little box of a place—three besides Kestler; Hatch, his barrel-bodied partner, Henckel, and one other. The third man looked like a glorified bar-keep. He was of the type I have heard called "black Irish," fat, sleek, and well-fed, with little pin-point black eyes half buried in the flesh of his round face, and the padded jaw and double chin shaved to the blue. I knew this third man well enough, by sight; everybody in Portal City knew him—decent people only too well when it came to an election tussle. He was the redoubtable Pete Clannahan, divekeeper, and political boss.

Kestler was telling the three how he had shadowed Mr. Norcross from the railroad headquarters to the Bullard, and how he stayed around until he had seen the boss take a taxi for Major Kendrick's. This seemed to be all that was wanted of him, for when he was through, Hatch told him he might go home. After the cock-eyed clerk was gone, Hatch lighted a fresh cigar and put it squarely up to the Irishman.

"It's no use being mealy-mouthed over this thing, Pete," he grated in that saw-mill voice of his. "We've got to get rid of this man. Every day's delay gives him that much better hold. We can choke him off by littles in the business game, of course; we have Dunton and the New Yorkers on our side, and this co-operative scheme he has launched can be broken down with money. But that doesn't help you political people out; and your stake in the game is even bigger than ours."

Clannahan looked around the little dog-kennel of a place suspiciously.

"Tis not here that we can talk much about thin things, Mister Hatch," he said cautiously.

"Why not?" was the rasping question. "There's nobody in the yard, and the gates are locked. It's a d-d sight safer than a back room in one of your dives—as we know now to our cost."

Clannahan threw up his head with a gesture that said much. "Murphy's the man that leaked on that engine job—and he'll leak no more."

"Well," said Hatch, with growing irritation, "what are you holding back for now? We stood to win on the first play, and we would have won if your people hadn't bailed it by talking too much. One more day and Dismuke would have been in the saddle. That would have settled it."

"Yah; and Mister Dismuke still here in Portal City remains," put in Henckel.

The divekeeper locked his pudgy fingers across a cocked knee.

"Tis foine, brave gentlemen ye are, you two, when ye've got somebody else to pull th' nuts out av th' fire for ye!" he said. "Ye'd have us croak this felly fr ye, and thin ye'd stand back and wash yer hands while some poor devil wint to th' rope fr it. Where do we come in, is what I'd like to know?"

"You are already in," snapped Hatch. "You know what the big fel-Saffron Once Royal Color.

In Ireland saffron early became a royal color and, for a long period after such exclusiveness was taken away in Erin, the yellow saffron-dyed shirt remained a mark of social distinction in the Hebrides. In art saffron was much employed in medieval illuminated manuscripts. In combination with tin foil as a substitute for gold, and, of course, at all periods the coloring of many textiles was done with little crocus stigmas.

CHAUTAUQUA COMEDY IS A KNOCK-OUT

SCENE FROM "NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH."

A rib-ticking comedy of embarrassments. In which even a white lie would blacken a man's reputation. A crusader of truth among an army of fibbers. In which a modern American goes the "Father of His Country" one better. In a desert of fabrications, with a truthful man as an oasis. Showing that the way of the truth-teller is hard. An adventure in veracity revealing that fibbers are in the majority among the best families.

Wherein a single lie will cost a young man $10,000 in cash. It proves that the cherry incident was possible. In which the high cost of living is matched by the high cost of fibbing. The whole truth, without the police court's attendant oath to enforce it. A farce of funny features in which truth telling proves one of the most painful of the arts. This lively three-act comedy is to be presented at the Redpath Chautauqua. Be there and try to keep from laughing. It can't be done.

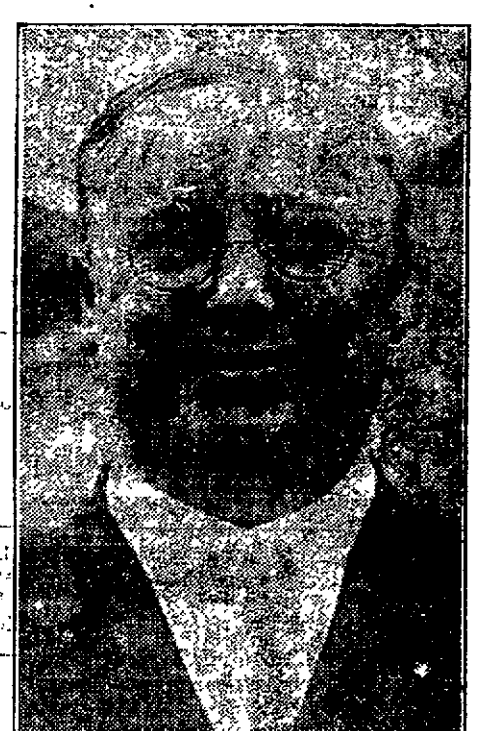

Accompanist For Knight MacGregor

EDNA WALLACE.

AN important contribution to the success of Knight MacGregor, the Scotch-Canadian baritone, who is to be heard on Chautauqua's closing night, is the capable piano work of Miss Wallace. She has been accompanist for Mr. MacGregor since the beginning of his conspicuous rise in the musical world, and the Redpath management feels confident that with Miss Wallace and an efficient cellist Mr. MacGregor will be ably supported in this season's concert engagements.

As He Appears at Chautauqua

ORVILLE L. KIPLINGER.

"THE Remaking and Mending of Men," announced as Chaplain Kiplinger's theme when he appears at the coming Chautauqua, is a lecture full of human interest thrills. The speaker keeps away from all shop-worn sentiments and phrases. He resolutely frees himself from bro-midic stories and illustrations. He knew intimately 30,000 convicts during his many years as chaplain of the Indiana State Prison.

Do YOU Need a Tonic?

Oil City, Pa.—I can praise Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery most highly as a tonic. My husband was just about down and out; he had absolutely no strength and we thought he was in for a sick spell when 'Golden Medical Discovery' was recommended to him some years ago. The first few doses started him gaining in health and he was just as well as could be within a month or so. Since that time whenever he needs a tonic he does not hesitate in getting Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and he also recommends it to his friends. And Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are safe and reliable to use whenever a laxative is needed. I have taken these 'Pellets' and have given them to every member of my family and I have never known them to give any but the best results. —MRS. MARGARET BRADLEY, 108 Walnut Street. All druggists.

LOST-- OPPORTUNITIES

You probably realize that you have allowed many opportunities to slip by you in the course of a life time.

You know that many of these opportunities if seized at the right moment would perchance have made you independent for life. Others would at least have brought you lucrative return.

Yesterday can never be recalled. The opportunities passed are gone forever.

The money you have NOT made is like water over the falls.

Today You Must Think of the Golden Future Before You

You must think of the possibilities of the morrow.
You must lay your foundation so that your future shall be secure beyond doubt.

The Continental Trust of Connecticut under authorization of a declaration of trust, offers one of the biggest and soundest opportunities you have ever had laid before you.

It is no vain speculation or gambling chance.

It is not based on the future of any ONE branch of commerce or industry.

You do not place all your eggs in one basket.

Its holdings are and will be widely distributed among the fields of business, commerce and industry.

Its investment will be widely chosen by men of rare skill and experience in the fields of business and finance.

They will have better opportunity to study the most intimate details of every project before one dollar of the Continental Trust's money, your money, is placed with them.

May we not direct your attention to the personnel of this organization, and ask you if such men do not command your confidence, respect and trust.

Heart Trouble Not Fatal.

Heart disease is not the barrier to an active life of usefulness as has always been supposed, said Dr. Frederick Brush to the National Society for the Promotion of Occupational Therapy. Nothing is gained and much lost by telling cardiac patients not to work, not to carry, not to play, and so on. Under proper supervision the person with heart trouble can take a large part in active life.

Ancient Money.

The first coins used by the civilized nations of the ancient world were small metal ingots stamped with a ruler's seal. It is probable that they were first minted in Lydia, the rich Asian kingdom of which Croesus was the most famous king. The "punch-marked" coins of India are assigned to a period older even than that of Buddhism.

Paramount Super Special Production

"HUMORESQUE"

From the celebrated story by Fannie Hurst, starring

ALMA RUBENS

The sordid clatter of the New York Ghetto. A little lad there, hugging an old violin. A mother her soul aflame, watching, giving, dreaming. A radiant girl, waiting. At last! Wealth! The applause of countless, crowding thousands for "the master of them all". "Humoresque" they cried. And he played it in farewell—played it with breaking heart, then smiling, flung his career and his wonderful art away. Some called him "fool"! Not all. You'll know why when you see the end. A tale of joy and tears for feeling hearts.

First show starts 7:15, second 9, third after Chautauqua.

Saturday June 25th.

Special Children's Matinee at 3 p. m.

"TWINKLE, TWINKLE, LITTLE STAR"

This is a special five reel feature production and will be shown at matinee only, be sure to let all the kiddies see this.

Admission 11c to all.

Saturday Evening June 25th.

Jesse D. Hampton will present his super production:

"HALF A CHANCE"

with Mahlon Hamilton and Lillian Rich.

From the novel by Frederick S. Isham. This super production is tremendous in thought, stupendous in action, and gigantic in dramatic peaks. The photography is wonderful the continuity smooth.

It swings from the sordid underworld—the prize ring, to the stoke-hole of a steamer—to a ship wreck, the vast ocean, and then to the glamour of high society. It out-ranks "The Spoiler", "The Ne'er do Well" and any other virile, red-blooded dramas that the public has acclaimed.

First show starts at 7, second at 8:30, third at 10 p. m.

Ancient Signs Asked Votes.

The use of chalked instead of printed notices for advertisement and political propaganda has ancient precedent, as the "graffiti" of Pompeii attest. There we had in red letters painted on the walls that "the barbers wish to have Trebius as aedile" or that "the fruit sellers wish one certain Pricus for the duumvirate."

PENNSYLVANIA STATE ITEMS

Lock Haven.—Two deer approached within ten feet of the barnyard of the Bloomsburg—William Harris is not accustomed to having callers drop out of the sky into his dooryard, but he had one. H. P. Morgan, flying a mail airplane between New York and Bellefonte, developed engine trouble and was compelled to make a forced landing. He was unable to control the plane properly, and the machine finally stopped with its nose against the front steps of Harris' porch. Repairs were made in a short time and Morgan continued the trip. D. A. Carls farm near here.

Hazleton.—The school district has passed from the third to the second class as a result of an increase in population.

Brownsville.—Caught under a fall of slate and rocks in a mine near here, John Harat, of Scottsdale, suffered a fractured spine.

Reading.—Liggett Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, has decided not to affiliate with the United War Veterans' Council, to be composed of representatives of the various veteran organizations of the city, but has increased its own welfare committee and will aid work for the unemployed.

Uniontown.—So soundly did Steve Mahlik sleep that he was not disturbed during the time required for the removal by the use of a block and tackle of two trunks from his room on the second floor of his home. The trunks, which contained about all the money he possessed, more than $2100, were found about 200 yards from the Mahlik home.

Sunbury.—Milton Jarrett Norman Post, American Legion, took title to the Twelfth Regiment armory and it will be used as a home for the post as well as an armory for any National Guard units that may be organized in Sunbury. The post paid $6057.26 for the property at sheriff's sale. This was considered about a twentieth of its value, but because of sentiment no one else bid when it was offered by Sheriff Martz to satisfy a lien held by a local bank. The armory was erected in 1892 by Company E, Twelfth Regiment, N. G., P., which formed a holding company under the name of the Sunbury Guards. The contract price was $22,000 and the lot was worth $10,000. The present value is placed at $100,000.

Reading.—When Virginia Funk, 7 years old, of Eberly, discovered a large blacksnake in the bath room of her home, having presence of mind, she ran out, closing the door. Calling her father, Oscar Funk, he seized it with a towel and took it to the yard, where Westley E. Conklin, a guest, shot it. The snake measured five feet nine inches.

Canton.—Jewels valued at more than $2600 were stolen from the Packard Hotel by two men who gave their names as H. K. Willis and J. B. Brays, and still are at large. The men came to the hotel, registered and obtained a room. Then, while the other guests were at dinner, ransacked several rooms. The heaviest loss fell upon Mrs. Frank Capella, wife of the proprietor. The raid was discovered about two hours after the men had left Canton in an automobile.

Johnstown.—Charles Eplack was sentenced to from 15 to 17 years in the Western Penitentiary by Judge Stephens when he entered a plea of guilty to an indictment for sedition. Eplack was arrested last February while distributing radical literature among the employees of a railroad construction company. "It is a pity that you ever came to this country to abuse its privileges and try to pull down the flag that our forefathers shed their life's blood to preserve," said Judge Stephens in imposing sentence. It was the first case of sedition ever prosecuted in Cambria county.

Northumberland.—Burglars looted the home of P. G. Ruch of goods and money totaling $300 in value.

Harrisburg.—Pennsylvania motor vehicles will display cream colored license tags with brown numerals in 1922, that combination having been chosen by Highway Commissioner Sadler. Manufacture of the tags will begin soon and probably 750,000 will be required. The highway department has started out to break construction records and has passed the 100-mile mark almost two months earlier than last year, which was the banner year. Work is under way on more contracts than ever before at this time.

Uniontown.—It took a jury less than half an hour to acquit Bennie Brown of the murder of Sylvester Williams.

Pottsville.—An unknown person fired a bullet into a Pullman car on the Pennsylvania railroad express train just north of here, missing a woman passenger by an inch. It tore away a wire screen and damaged the woodwork.

Altoona.—Jolted from the running board of a truck, Charles Knox, a colored barber, was run over and his neck broken.

New Holland.—Isaac Snader has been appointed postmaster to succeed Eli L. Hess.

Pottsville.—Council has finally adopted a daylight saving ordinance.

Lock Haven.—A camp of the United Spanish War Veterans with 25 members was organized here.

Mount Carmel.—When Dr. W. H. Lewis opened his garage to get his automobile to make a call he found it empty.

Pittsburgh.—Of the 225 violent deaths in Pittsburgh last month automobiles caused 13, according to the May report of Coroner Jamison. Eight persons were listed as having been murdered and only three were killed while trespassing on railroads.

York.—When the rotten boards of a well covering broke beneath her feet, Mrs. Amos Young, of Dallas-town, barely saved herself from plunging 60 feet to the bottom. Her outstretched hands clutched the edge and her cries brought her husband to her assistance as she was almost exhausted.

Danville.—Harold, 10-year-old son of Benjamin Leighow, died in the Geisinger hospital from lockjaw, which developed from an injury he suffered when he fell from the roof of his father's barn while playing. Medical attention was not given for two days and lockjaw developed.

Palmyra.—Former County Commissioner and Mrs. John S. Bomberger left for California for the purpose of celebrating their golden wedding anniversary with their three sons at Modesto, that state. The celebration will take place on August 25.

Danville.—All records for years were broken in May in the Montour county jail. Sheriff Wagner cared for 10 prisoners in the month, the largest number in 12 years, and yet there never were more than two at one time. There is one prisoner there at present.

Harrisburg.—State Treasurer Charles A. Snyder received $14.25 in cash which went into the state's conscience fund. The postmark on the letter was blurred and the place of sending could not be made out. The sender wrote a typewritten letter with no name signed and merely stated the money was for the state taxes due in 1911 to 1914 and which the sender had withheld at the time, not deeming it worth while, but since conscience had been at work and he or she "wished to be relieved of the burden."

Sunbury.—When he plunged 50 feet off a stack he was painting Harold Bartholomew, 19, Sunbury boy steeplejack, suffered injuries from which he died in a few minutes. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bartholomew and took keen interest in doing hazardous jobs from dizzy heights, friends say.

Berwick.—M. W. Sutliff, aged 65 years, a prominent Hunktown township farmer, living eight miles from here, has been missing since March 28 relatives revealed when they sought aid of the police in finding him. Sutliff disappeared from home about 3 o'clock in the morning and when he did not return after several days the family began a quiet search for him. They made inquiries of relatives throughout this and other states, thinking he might have gone on a visit but all inquiries proved fruitless.

Sunbury.—Two barrels of a high grade whisky taken in a raid on Willard D. Leiby's pool room here four months ago, were sold to hospitals by the government for the nominal price of $2 a gallon. One went to an institution at Bethlehem and the other to the Shamokin State Hospital. Much of the $50,000 worth of liquor stored in the Northumberland county jail here is declared to be alcohol, ether and prune juice, worthless for medicinal purposes. This will go down the sewer at the jail.

Pittsburgh.—The Pennsylvania Chocolate company entered suit against C. G. Lewellyn, collector of internal revenue here, to recover $101,378 with interest. The company claims that the amount is for taxes on chocolate which it manufactured and sold and which the government unlawfully collected in 1919 and 1920.

Harrisburg.—The unemployment situation in Pennsylvania is better, according to district reports to the state employment bureau office, contractors seeking most of the men wanted. The reports show these estimates of unemployed by districts: Altoona, 20,225; Erie, 14,190; Harrisburg, 14,295; Johnstown, 8710; Meadport, 4740; New Kensington, 9500; Philadelphia, 94,000 men and 12,175 women; Pittsburgh, 40,050; Scranton, 22,360; Williamsport, 4350.

New Castle.—Judge S. Plummer Emery refused the application of Albert Torrence White, convicted wife murderer, for a new trial and sentenced him to the electric chair. White who had been commanded by the court to stand while the sentence was being read, turned to his counsel, former State Representative Robert S. Wallace, as the judge finished pronouncing sentence and asked "Is that all?" The court reviewed the evidence in detail and each of the exceptions filed by Attorney Wallace was refused in turn. The right of women to serve as jurors formed the basis of the defending attorney's exceptions.

Pottsville.—A big cave-in so deep that the bottom could not be seen, occurred on the Sherman colliery tract, only 12 yards from Fourth street, in the southern section of the city. This is the road which skirts Sharp Mountain and it has been fenced off as a matter of precaution to prevent pedestrians from falling to their death. Sharp Mountain at this point is becoming housecombed with deep mine holes.

Pittsburgh.—Twenty persons were injured, none seriously, in a head-on collision of interurban cars between Pittsburgh and Washington.

Hazleton.—The Salvation Army campaign to raise $12,000 for home service fund has reached $9000.

Hazleton.—Only 50 per cent of the applicants seeking certificates to work as miners in this district passed the tests of the examining board.

Stoddardville.—Frank Mayrock and Martin Schmidt, Wilkes-Barre fisher men, motoring home from the Pocomos, ran over and killed a red fox near here.
